

Statement of policy and purpose of Policy

1. Mansfield Choral Society (known hereafter as the Society) is committed to ensuring that all personal information handled by us will be processed accordingly to legally compliant standards of data protection and data security.
2. The purpose of this policy is to help us achieve our data protection and data security aims by:
 - a. notifying our members of the types of personal information that we may hold about them and what we do with that information;
 - b. ensuring members understand our rules and the legal standards for handling personal information relating to members and others: and
 - c. clarifying the responsibilities and duties of members in respect of data protection and data security.
3. This is a statement of policy only. We may amend this policy at any time and at the discretion of the committee.

Who is responsible for data protection and data security?

4. Maintaining appropriate standards of data protection and data security is a collective task shared between the committee and the members. This policy and the rules contained in it apply to all members of the Society, irrespective of their position within the Society.
5. The Society managing committee has overall responsibility for ensuring that all personal information is handled in compliance with the law and has appointed a member of the managing committee as the Data Protection Officer with day-to-day responsibility for data processing and data security.
6. All Members have personal responsibility to ensure compliance with this policy, to handle all personal information consistently with the principles set out here and to ensure that measures are taken to protect the data security. The managing committee have special responsibility for leading by example and monitoring and enforcing compliance.
7. Any breach of this policy will be taken seriously and may result in disciplinary action.

What personal information and activities are covered by this policy?

8. This policy covers personal information:
 - a. which relates to a living individual who can be identified either from that information in isolation or by reading it together with other information we possess;

 - d. Complaint, grievance or legal matters: in connection with any complaint, grievance, legal, regulatory or compliance matters or proceedings that may involve you.
 - e. We may also use your personal data to maintain adequate records for the efficient operation of the Society.
12. We confirm that that for the purposes of the Data Protection Act 1998, the Society is a Data Controller of the personal information in connection with your membership. This means that we determine the purposes for which, and the manner in which, your personal information is processed.
13. If you consider that any information held about you is inaccurate then you should tell your voice steward or the Data Protection Officer and, if we agree that the information is inaccurate then we will correct it. If we do not agree with the correction then we will note your comments.
14. We will take reasonable steps to ensure that your personal information is kept secure, as described later in this policy and in general, we will not disclose your personal information to others outside the Society. However, we may need to disclose personal information about Members:
 - a. to comply with our legal obligations or assist in a criminal investigation or to seek legal or professional advice in relation to membership issues, which may involve disclosure to our lawyers, accountants or auditors and to legal and regulatory authorities, such as HM Revenue and Customs;
 - b. to other parties which provide products or services to us. e.g. insurance services
15. By providing your personal information to us, you consent to the use of your personal information (including any sensitive personal data) in accordance with this policy.

Data Protection Principles.

16. Members whose work involves using personal data relating to Members or others must comply with this policy and with the eight legal data protection principles which require that personal information is:
 - a. Processed fairly and lawfully. We must always have a lawful basis to process personal information. In most (but not all) cases, the person to whom the information relates (the Subject) must have given consent. The Subject must be told who controls the information (the managing committee), the purpose(s) for which we are processing the information and to whom it may be disclosed.
 - b. Processed for limited purposes and in an appropriate way. Personal information must not be collected for one purpose and then used for another. If we want to change the way we use personal information we must first tell the Subject.
 - c. Adequate, relevant and not excessive for the purpose.
 - d. Accurate. Regular checks must be made to correct or destroy inaccurate information.
 - e. Not kept longer than necessary for the purpose. Information must be destroyed or deleted when we no longer need it. For guidance on how long particular information should be kept, contact the Data Protection Officer.
 - f. Processed in line with Subjects' rights. Subjects have a right to request access to their personal information, prevent their personal information being used for direct-marketing, request the correction of inaccurate data and to prevent their personal information being used in a way likely to cause them or another person damage or distress.
 - g. Secure. See further information about data security below.
 - h. Not transferred to people or organisations without adequate protection.

17. Some personal information needs even more careful handling. This includes information about a person's racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or similar beliefs, trade union membership, physical or mental health or condition or sexual life or about criminal offences. Strict conditions apply to processing this sensitive personal information and the Subject must normally have given specific and express consent to each way in which the information is used.

Data security

18. We must all protect personal information in our possession from being accessed, lost, deleted or damaged unlawfully or without proper authorisation through the use of data security measures.
19. Maintaining data security means making sure that:
 - a. only people who are authorised to use the information can access it;
 - b. information is accurate and suitable for the purpose for which it is processed; and
 - c. authorised persons can access information if they need it for authorised purposes. The Society should make every effort to securely store personal data on computer systems.
20. By law, we must use procedures and technology to secure personal information throughout the period that we hold or control it, from obtaining to destroying the information.
21. Personal information must not be transferred to any person to process (eg while performing services for us on or our behalf), unless that person has either agreed to comply with our data security procedures or we are satisfied that other adequate measures exist.
22. Security procedures include:
 - a. Physically securing information. Any desk or cupboard containing confidential information must be kept secure. Computers should be locked with a password or shut down when they are left unattended and discretion should be used when viewing personal information on a monitor to ensure that it is not visible to others. Memory stick or other external memory devices containing personal data must be kept secure.
23. Telephone Precautions. Particular care must be taken by Members who deal with telephone enquiries to avoid inappropriate disclosures. In particular:
 - a. the identity of any telephone caller must be verified before any personal information is disclosed;
 - b. if the caller's identity cannot be verified satisfactorily then they should be asked to put their query in writing;
 - c. do not allow callers to bully you into disclosing information. In case of any problems or uncertainty, contact the Data Protection Officer.
24. Methods of disposal. Copies of personal information, whether on paper or on any physical storage device, must be physically destroyed when they are no longer needed. Paper documents should be shredded and CDs or memory sticks or similar must be rendered permanently unreadable.
25. Additional measures to ensure data security include the member database will be password protected and will be available only to those members of the Society who are deemed need to use it.

Subject access requests

26. By law, any Subject (including Members) may make a formal request for information that we hold about them, provided that certain conditions are met. The request must be made in writing. A fee currently of £10.00 is payable by the data subject for provision of this information. In some circumstances it may not be possible to release the information about the Subject to them eg if it contains personal data about another person.
27. Any member of the Society who receives a written request should forward it to the Data Protection Officer immediately.
